Comments

In general I support the proposed change to allow a warming station at the Salvation Army facility. However questions come to mind: How do the persons get to the station and where do they go upon release the next morning? The facility is located in or near residential neighborhoods. Will there be an increase in foot traffic in these neighborhoods from homeless persons? Will the park become a hangout by homeless persons during the day while waiting for the warming station to open? There is a hiking trail by the facility, (which I have used regularly). Will safety become an issue? How will the Salvation Army and the City of McKinney address these issues?
