

CITY OF MCKINNEY LAND DISPOSITION POLICY

PURPOSE

- To outline the process by which the city may dispose of real properties.
- To outline the process by which interested parties may purchase surplus and/or tax foreclosed properties, including private sale of property to qualified non-profit organizations and affordable housing private builders, in furtherance of the City of McKinney's policy to create affordable housing opportunities for very low-to-moderate-income families.

POLICY

Disposal of Vacant Lots Suitable for Affordable Housing

Staff will dispose of any surplus vacant lots suitable for affordable housing as follows:

1. The first of every four lots that come through the housing office following foreclosure will be made available for sale to local non-profit builders.
 - a. A representative from each non-profit builder will convene with staff to draw straws. This will determine the order in which the non-profits will receive right to purchase available vacant lots. Should a non-profit entity forego its option to purchase a property, the remaining non-profits can draw again to see which gains the right to purchase that particular property.
 - b. Lots will be sold on an alternating basis to interested non-profits at a purchase price of $2,500.
2. The next three lots (75% of the annual total) will be sold by sealed bid, online auction, private sale, or lottery (depending on the number of lots available at the time) under standard purchasing procedures. Bidding will be open to non-profit or for-profit builders of affordable housing.
3. Net proceeds, if any, will be used in the Community Housing Fund affordable housing program. (Net proceeds are the amounts remaining after all judgment and court costs [usually about $1,500] have been paid and each taxing entity has received its pro rata share of taxes owed.
