Yes, we just made the decision for certain. Everything that has been spent has been on things thatqu will be kept intact for the Event Center. What we will do now, instead of using money for modernizing and furnishing bedrooms, is to modify the reconstruction work to enable us to display for the public the initial construction elements which we uncovered during the work done to date. Instead of turning a historical structure into a commercial building, which we were being required to do, we will be able to maintain and display the historical elements and design of the House while still achieving one of our goals, which was to make fuller, and in this case profitable, uses for the buildings.
