I am opposed to the building of single-family residences on the Southeast Corner of College Street and Howell Street. This development would monopolize the land of McKinney and remove the possibility for public works. I instead propose for a dog park to be built in its place. The residents of McKinney are animal-friendly individuals who would greater benefit from a place of activity and socialization that caters to the needs of a variety of lifestyles through valuable, recreational experiences in nature. A public dog park would bring the community together and promote the preservation of land and resources, encourage exercise and exploration, and influence people to spend more time with their dogs.
