BACKGROUND INFORMATION:

- A primary theme that the Plan focuses on is the creek/greenbelt system that runs through McKinney - Wilson Creek, East Fork of the Trinity and Honey Creek as well as smaller tributaries and creeks that are connected. These creek corridors, with their natural beauty, serve as the backbone of the entire parks and trails system, creating a system of linear parks that are designated as signature and greenbelt parks, also called “Pearls” and “Gems” in this park plan.
- By taking advantage of a natural environment that few other cities have, McKinney can establish itself as not only having an exceptional parks and trails system, but also as a desirable place to live and work.

- Our Park Plan is being updated concurrently with the City’s overall Comprehensive Plan update, which is being managed through the Planning Department. Both of these plans are being coordinated in conjunction with each other.
- The Comprehensive Plan breaks out the city into 16 different districts, known as Preferred Scenarios. Our plan also uses this district framework for laying out and planning for our parks, trails and streetscapes. Each of the 16 districts is connected through our trails system in addition to either having a designation for a signature or greenbelt park, depending on the district location.

- The existing Park Master Plan was adopted in 2009.
