25-2782 Chair Richardson-Woods called for the City of McKinney Housing and Community Development to provide an update on the consolidated plan. Community Services Administrator Shirletta Best shared that McKinney has been recognized as #1 in housing affordability. The City's Housing and Community Development offers opportunities for low to moderate-income residents and implements quality-of-life improvements to address economic and social inequalities. A five-year plan that is funded by the U.S. Department of Housing and Community Development lays the foundation to bring together residents, community leaders, local and state governments, federal officials, businesses, and other organizations to share data and provide input. Input includes public services, best utilization of funds, identification of best resources, and envisioning quality-of-life impacts over a five-year period. Once the Consolidated Plan is approved by HUD, work will begin on an Annual Action Plan, where funding will be allocated based on input from the Community Grants Advisory Commission to meet plan goals. At the end of the year, the department reports to Council and the public regarding how the funds were utilized. Throughout the process, citizen participation and engagement are encouraged through surveys, community forums, and presentations. The Citizen Participation Planning process informs residents how they can participate and includes low to moderate-income persons, especially those living in areas of slum and blight or revitalization areas, people of color, those with disabilities, the unsheltered, neighborhood advocates, public officials and private citizens. Ms. Best shared that the plan includes disaster impacts and potential disaster relief funding from CDBG, FEMA and other sources. The process also focuses on meeting people where they are, including hospitals, correction programs, and public housing programs to secure input. They also focus on language accessibility and will be working with the school systems, any emerging communities, and those in the ETJ. Ms. Best shared that MCDC has been a tremendous partner and encouraged Board members to support the Consolidated Plan update and share their story by providing data, resources, information, and participating in hearings and surveys.

Chair Richardson-Woods called for a motion on consent items. Board members unanimously approved a motion by Secretary Bradford, seconded by Vice Chair Riche, to approve the following consent item:
