City of McKinney- City Manager Paul Grimes announced last week June 12th was the second of four scheduled meetings of the charter review commission. Mr. Grimes noted Chairman Bill Cox and Vice Chairman Marianne Radley did a nice job facilitating the meeting. The meeting was about the future composition of City Council, how many seats, how many districts, how many at large, if any. The final decision will be made at the last meeting which is currently scheduled for July 10th. The next meeting is next week, June 26th, and will discuss compensation matters related to future City Council members. The July 10th meeting will be a wrap up and final recommendation. The charter review commission will report to the City Council at a work session on July 23rd. This will be an advisory opinion and the City Council will decide whether to call an election. Mr. Grimes announced every June there is discussion about potential homestead or senior and elderly disabled exemptions. The current exemption is $85,000. This information is reviewed in June because the City must report any plans to adopt an increase in exemptions to the Collin Central Appraisal District. Mr. Grimes announced the Building Inspections department received a two-point improvement in their International Organization for Standardization (ISO) ratings. Residential multifamily and single family and nonresidential. Mr. Grimes announced the Communications department attends the Texas Association of Municipal Information Officers conference (TAMIO) every year. TAMIO is an affiliate of the Texas Municipal League and every year they host the "TAMI" awards. The City of McKinney won in seven categories at the event in San Antonio a few weeks ago.

Visit McKinney- Visit McKinney Executive Director Aaron Werner announced we had a 96% occupancy rate on May 25th of this year, only a 0.8% increase from the same day a year ago. Thursdays, Fridays, and Saturdays in McKinney are consistently seeing over 90%, upwards of 96% occupancy. Mr. Werner noted this is an example of the numbers they are seeing. A lot of this comes from the sports market. A week and a half ago, Mr. Werner and Visit McKinney Sales Manager Marie Woodard traveled to Mesa, Arizona for an event called "The Invitational". It was a conference with one-on-one meetings with sports planners and tournament providers from across the country. Mr. Werner noted this is the second sports conference the Visit McKinney staff has attended since he joined the team. Mr. Werner noted McKinney was the talk of the entire conference, being present there, the facilities we have, the events we already host in McKinney and the fact we are new to being face-to-face with these planners was a huge opportunity. Mr. Werner noted Visit McKinney will continue to attend these events and hopefully bring some big names back. Mr. Werner announced he is anticipating a major announcement on July 1st for a once in a lifetime opportunity for McKinney to host a significant event in November. Mr. Werner noted he spoke with Arch Street this week and they fully anticipate Hotel Denizen to be open and operating come October barring any significant construction issues. Mr. Werner announced this coming Friday is “Make Music Day” at Visit McKinney. There will be about 45 harmonicas available for kids and people of all ages. Jon Christopher Davis will be on site to teach anyone who attends how to play the harmonica.
